The decision to add additional classrooms to a school is based on a number of factors, including but not limited to the demand for placement at the school.

These factors may include (but are by no means limited to):

- The availability of sufficient budget,
- The availability of posts,
- The availability of sufficient physical space for additional classrooms,
- The current number of learners of the school, and
- Management capacity at the school.

We target the placement of new classrooms to a variety of different schools in order to cater to demand overall, including schools receiving large numbers of applications such as Claremont High School and Spine Road High School.

A number of our Quintile 5 schools with excess applications have contributed their own funding toward building additional classrooms, such as Milnerton High School.

Building new classrooms at existing schools is not the only option available to expand capacity. We have implemented our ground-breaking Rapid School Build programme which delivers brand new schools in record time, serving areas where demand is high.

We are also looking at our existing capacity, by refurbishing and resourcing classrooms that are not currently in use. For example, we have just opened the new Neurodiverse Centre at Axios School of Skills, where previously unused classrooms have been refurbished to provide school places for learners with Autism Spectrum Disorder as well as Learners with Profound Intellectual Disabilities.

In terms of additional teachers, members will recall that in the Education Budget Speech on 23 March 2026 we have allocated funding for up to 701 additional teachers in our schools to increase capacity.

This includes up to 600 teachers in public ordinary schools, and up to 101 teachers in special needs schools, and filling some of these posts is already underway.
